

They took it for granted
But look at the damage it caused
They despised it
But it shook the world
It was just tiny
But deep within
It was a weapon of mass destruction
It left them dumbstruck
Took away all their happiness
Made them miserable
Took away every glimmer of hope in their eyes
Who knew how dangerous it was
Just a little notebook
Destroyed the world
Something people wrote stories about
Turned humans against each other
It was its existence
That led to corruption
Just a simple game
Killed all its lovers and players